

Giuseppina Ferrari

January 30, 1927 - August 27, 2021

Abbi Coraggio

Giuseppina Ferrari (nee Coletti, Coletta) aka: Mamma, Josie, Jo

Born in Sora, Italy, on January 30, 1927, Giuseppina was the first child of Assunta Petrozzi and Vincenzo Coletta and the eldest of five children - Marietta, Pasquale, Domenica and Bernardino.

As a teenager, World War II shook Italy and Giuseppina lived in the horror of that conflict. She suffered physical and emotional injuries and wore a deep scar on her body from a piece of shrapnel. She sustained the injury during a bombing raid in town, when she heroically threw herself over her younger cousin.

At a young age she became the finest sarta (seamstress) in the area, tailoring wedding dresses. And most importantly she met and courted her future husband, Felice Ferrari. They were a beautiful young couple in love.

Felice Ferrari was the eldest of four brothers who lived in the nearby borough of San Giorgio. Luigi Ferrari, Felice's father, had fought in the U.S. Army during World War I. As a result of his service, he earned U.S. citizenship. After the death of his mother and father, Felice put to use the American citizenship he inherited from his dad, Luigi. Sponsored by Italian friends, he journeyed to Michigan and sent for his fiancé Giuseppina to join him.

She packed a small single trunk of personal belongings and traveled alone to America by boat. Her memories of that voyage included her roommate being a pregnant woman who unfortunately spent the 10 day voyage seasick.

Giuseppina and Felice were married in Detroit September 29, 1956. At the time, Felice was a bricklayer and Giuseppina worked as a seamstress at the downtown Hudson's Department Store doing alterations. They lived in East Detroit (now Eastpointe), where she learned to drive. While working construction, her husband fell three stories down a shaft and was then hit in the head by a piece of falling cinderblock. Josie cared for him for over a year until he recovered.

Giuseppina and Felice lent a hand by sponsoring family members from Italy to come to Michigan. They included: Pasquale Coletti, Jo's brother; Domenica Catena, Jo's sister; Giuseppe, Felice's brother and his wife Filomena and their children Loretta and Chiarina; Antonio and Paulo Ferrari, Felice's younger brothers. Many of their siblings married and Josie gained nieces and nephews: Enzo and Gianna Coletta, Vincenzo Catena, Cynthia Noe and Vincenzo Coletti, Lori Pantera and Chiarina Douglas, Luigi and Joseph Ferrari, Lorena and Gianni Ferrari.

While waiting in a line of workers seeking employment at the gate of Ford Motor Company, Giuseppina asked to use the restroom facilities. She was granted admittance because she was pregnant. Once inside, she jumped on a sewing machine and totally impressed them with her skills. She was hired on the spot. She opened the door to Ford Motor Company for the entire family. First Felice, then his three brothers, a nephew and her son all worked at Ford.

The young Ferrari family grew to include two children: Gabriele Louis and Maria Susan (Su). Josie suffered the loss of two other children - Loretta who was stillborn and a miscarriage.

During this period the couple worked opposite shifts at the Ford Utica Trim Plant. In front of the guard shack the children would sit in the family car waiting for the parent finishing their work shift to come out and change places with the driving parent. Because the Ferrari's had an acre garden at home in Romeo, they sold vegetables to the Ford workers during the shift change.

After many years working in the sewing department, Giuseppina had to be hospitalized and almost died from a lung infection caused by the toxic fibers in the air of that industrial facility. Due to her lung injuries, she was medically retired. Her husband continued working at the factory and finally retired after a heart attack.

With their children, Gabriele and Su grown up, the couple moved to Beverly Hills, Florida where they lived for many years. Felice's brothers, as well as Josie's brother Pasquale purchased property nearby to one day move to Florida to be all together again. Most of Su's vacations were devoted to seeing her family in Florida.

When her son Gabriele got sick, she compassionately cared for him at their home until his death in 1993. It was heart breaking. Jo began showing signs of dementia in the late 1990's. Then, her husband Felice died in 1999. Her daughter Su began her loving stewardship of Josie's care at that time and shortly after that Josie returned to Michigan to live with Su in Romeo.

Mamma liked to go! When she lived in Florida, she traveled all over. Once back in Michigan, Josie enjoyed biking in the Metro Parks and hiking. Accompanied by Su's cat Pogolito, they made tours of the scenic western U.S.

In 2006, Josie gained a daughter-in-law, Jaye Spiro. Mamma and Su moved from Romeo to Ferndale. It was a walkable downtown like Sora. The three lovingly walked arm in arm and later she journeyed by wheelchair all over the neighborhood. They enjoyed meals together, singing, ice cream and chocolate in countless places and so many shared settings. Mamma liked to go! She wanted to go wherever they went and they took her!

With Jaye and Su, Giuseppina continued her travels. She attended NWMAF conferences, martial arts training camps, Buddhist retreats. The three of them visited Italy and Canada, traveled extensively in Michigan and saw many U.S. states.

They traveled many times to Madison, Wisconsin to visit Jaye's family - brother Steve Spiro, wife Susan, niece Jaala and her husband Mike Callahan, and their children Corrina and Steve (Aden), nephew Jacob Spiro and his wife Krista and their children Skylar (Zoe) and Kai.

Josie became a regular at Meijishi Martial Arts where Jaye is the director. The dojo (school) is located two blocks from their home. She came to the studio many days a week and there she was loved and cared for by curious children and compassionate adults as they achieved martial arts success and learned self defense.

Josie's life journey came to a close on August 27, 2021, in Ferndale, MI surrounded by Su and Jaye's loving embrace. She will be laid to rest in Beverly Hills, Florida alongside her beloved husband and son. Forever at eternal rest. She remains in our hearts and center in our memories, a courageous woman who lived a good life in service to her family and those around her. Rest in peace. We loved you very much!

No Flowers Please - Our donation wish is that you invest time with your family or friends or someone who is in need of your loving kindness. Put the money in a jar on your counter and decide where to go to expand your connection with others. That would make Mamma's wish continue for generations to come.

Spend the time. Create the memories and share them with us.

You may have held open a door for Mamma and her wheelchair, said a kind word, given her direct care or something in between. We want to personally thank each one of you for standing with Josie and with us. Beside our gratitude for family and friends, we also appreciate the years of support that the Mejishi community has given to us. It has lifted us up and allowed us to be by her side.

Thank you. Thank you. Thank you

When the relatives in Italy found out about Mamma's decline they told us to "Abbi Coraggio" which means "Have courage." As we sat by her side Josie taught many lessons to us. May you also find strength and compassion to carry on this legacy of love.

The family will receive friends on Tuesday, August 31 from 10 am until time of funeral Mass, 11 am at Our Mother of Perpetual Help (St. James Campus), 241 Pearson, Ferndale, 48220.

“ Personalmente non ho mai conosciuto Giuseppina, ma ho avuto l'onore e il piacere di conoscere Jaye e Su che mi ha dimostrato sempre tanto affetto e hanno sempre avuto un pensiero per me. Sono sicuro che se Su è una persona così bella è perché ha avuto l'esempio di una grande donna come sua mamma! Spero che il mio abbraccio per voi arrivi fino in America.

“ Hi Sensei Su and Jaye,

My deepest condolences on the sad demise of your beloved mother. It's very hard to digest and to know that she is no more after living with us for long time. She really left the courageous and caring moments left behind to cherish and to learn from.

My thoughts are with both of you.

“ *I remember one day I went in to the dojo for class and Sensei Su greeted me, beaming with happiness. She told me that she was so happy because she had asked Josie to give her a kiss, and Josie heard, understood, and gave her a kiss! After reading about Josie's life, I understand where Sensei Su got the love and patience and hard work ethic needed to provide the level of care that Josie required for so many years. Josie herself taught it to Su, leading by example. What a beautiful illustration of doing unto others as you would have done unto you. Thank you for sharing Josie's story. It, along with the care I watched Su and Jaye show her, has truly touched my life. My thoughts and prayers are with you,

“ Josie was much more than the Meijishi Elder. She was a mother/grandmother to all of us. We still see her in the wheelchair with Minnie diligently keeping guard right next to her. No, no one will ever get used to such a tremendous loss. But we do get used to not being able to do so.
With prayers, Ilene and Victor
