“ I sure miss my Dad, he had help me with many, many issues over the years. He was there to help, more often in his later (Retired) years, in that he worked long hours throughout his adult working life. We shared many stories between us, in that both of us were U.S. Navy men. Although I never set a foot on a ship during by entire naval career, and he all his career served on PT Boats. Yes dad had his faults as we all do but when I needed him to discuss an issue, he was there with his MANY opinions. I will surely miss him but I know he has gone to a far better place.

Sure going to miss him during Army/Navy Game in the years to come. And so will all my friends , who have come to know him throughout these past years of his life.

“ I loved my father. We often didn't get along (guess I was never good enough for him.) But I loved him. He will be missed. Funny how time heals so much. I have my wonderful brothers so we can reminisce about life with mom and dad. And my husband is great, awesome and I love him to the max.

“ My heart is sad reading about Jim's passing. I always enjoyed hearing his stories about the PT boats! I thought PTs were only used in the Pacific Theater of operation, but Jim educated me that he was stationed in the Mediterranean Sea chasing after German patrol boats and vise versa. Jim is a true WWII hero in my eyes!! I will miss him.

My love and prayers go out to you Annie and the rest of the family.
