“ I remember them living near Roscommon when I was a teenager and after I had had polio so the date was after 1954 and before 1956. I stayed with Aunt Alberta and Uncle Bill for a couple weeks. I slept on the sofa and the piano was across the room from me. I believe it was when the school year was going. Mom had cancer and this was a way they could help with the burden of a child who needed help with everything. I remember Deb how pretty you were when you went out the door for school.. I recall Aunt Alberta never raising her voice and having a good sense of organization as she went through the task of the day. She was a caring mother and kept in touch with her family. I last saw Aunt Alberta at dad's service.
