“Peggy Hulme was a highly disciplined individual who managed to interweave this trait gracefully into her roles as wife, mother, grandmother, neighbor, and citizen. Along with all her other responsibilities, Peggy was a charter member of the acorn investment club, a women's group that prospered for almost fifty years. For nearly thirty of those years she hosted monthly meetings thereby providing stability to a group that was successfully navigating the vagaries of the stock market. Even-handed, resolute, honorable, are all good words, to describe this fine women. Godspeed Peggy. From Kate Manion and the Manion Family

“My cousin, Peggy, was a lovely lady with a great sense of humor and was always willing to help people. She helped me many times when I lived near her in Michigan.
