“ Grandma, I know you know this, but I'm going to say it anyway. I love you and miss you. I think about you often. I have so many memories of you and grandpa that I will cherish forever. I want to thank you for always treating me exactly the same up until the very last time I saw you. That will always mean so much to me. One day we will meet again and I will get to add more cherished moments to the ones I have now and they will be just as fun and will make me smile as I always do when I think of you. I love you "crazy" grandma.

“ Grandmother, I'll never forget you and all the memories we shared. I always find myself coming back here year after year and being amazed you have been away from this world for any amount of time because of how important you were to all of us.
People always compliment me on how kind or I am nice I am and I wish that I could explain to them every single time that it doesn't come naturally. It was the years upon years of unending compassion you and my grandfather showed me that taught me how to be that person. There's no amount of thanks in this world that can express my deepest gratitude.
I miss you so much, Grandma. Everyday. Thank you for being a part of my life. I was so blessed with the privilege of knowing you.

All the love in this world- Your grandson, David

“ Alice was a wonderful gal with a great sense of humor-a real people person.

When we visited with her, we had conversations about our mutual favorite topic-The Detroit Tigers! She knew a lot about baseball and could hold her own with Bill who shared her baseball expertise.

They had some good ideas about how to manage the team. We feel so blessed to have known Alice. We are grateful to LuAnn and Tom for bringing us all together. Thank you, Lord for touching Alice's life with ours.

Blessings,
Bill and Marcia Kuypers

“ I loved Alice! She was the Mother to my daughter-in-law, Lu. We connected in a great way. We were able to be comfortable with each other so we said whatever we were thinking and had many giggles together. Once her oxygen arrive and she refused to sign the papers until she knew exacting what she was signing, That tickled me, I admired her gumption! She wanted to be on the move and would tell me she was mad her body wasn't cooperating. I nodded off one night when we were visiting and woke up and she was still talking. I told my husband "that Alice is one tough lady." She was sick, but it was well hidden behind her zest for live. That shined through.
She will sure be missed, but she's an angel now. (Probably playing cards!) xoxo

I chose a blue candle because the last time I got to spend considerable time with my Aunty Alice was at her 80th birthday party. On that day, she had painted her toe nails a beautiful, vibrant shade of blue which matched her vibrant personality. She looked absolutely stunning! I commented on her toes, and she replied that she'd done them herself! I choose to remember my Aunty Alice in this way: vibrant, beautiful, stunning, and confident.
