“ *Anita Lovell was my grandmother. Though she would have slapped me upside the head if I called her that. To us she was our Mammaw. I've always had a close and special relationship with my grandmothers, and my Mammaw meant the world to me. She gave all of us grandkids anything we could ever want out of a grandma. She was truly an amazing women and her death broke us all. But I know now that she is no longer in pain, no longer at the hospitals.. I hope that wherever she is, it's a better place. I miss her dearly everyday. I try to be a person she would be proud of. I can't wait for my younger siblings to reach the age when I can help them understand how amazing of a women she was. I am no longer bitter about her death, because I know that death is just a part of life. And though her life wasn't perfect, I like to think that she was happy. She will forever be missed,but, more importantly, forever remembered...We all love you Mammaw :) I love you.
