Volunteering his time, he graciously assisted as an usher and greeter at Mass, embodying his faith through service to others.

An avid outdoorsman, Tony enjoyed the camaraderie in hunting, fishing, and archery. He had a deep appreciation for music, often finding solace in the tunes of classic easy listening artists. His favorite movies and television shows were old Westerns, with his favorite actor being John Wayne.

Anthony proudly served in the Army National Guard, demonstrating his commitment to his country.

“ I don't remember first meeting "Mr Milko" because I would have been 5 or 6 years old. I do remember having lots of fun at the house and always feeling like one of the family. He was a second father to me because I was at their house every chance I had. As an adult, I got a chance to know "Tony." My goal was always to make him laugh. He will forever be in my heart. I know he's happy now. RIP Tony.
