“ Candice was such a lovely person, I am so shocked and sorry to read of her passing. We were friends in the early nineties until I moved back to England. My deepest condolences to all her family. Candice was such a bright light in this world.

“Candice and I visited together every month or so for the last several years, and her passing leaves a big hole in my life. She was a voracious student of all God had to teach her through her experiences, and I was often in awe of her. She suffered in many ways, not just physical, and she often struggled to make sense of it all, but she had an extraordinary grace to sense God’s presence and to persevere in trust. She possessed a deep and abiding wisdom. Every kind of challenge intensified for her over the last several months, but her last text to me mentioned a renewed faith. She remains for me a testimony to how unfathomably personal the spiritual journey is and how personally God travels it with us. I’m grateful to have known her.”

“I remember Candace for her warm smile and welcoming greeting as she would say, "Hello, Richard." She had a venturesome spirit that I was so sorry to see become stifled as her illness became increasingly challenging. I take with me fond memories of Candace and an increased awareness of how life can be both beautiful and challenging. Pictures of Candace with her sisters area small reminder her kind and gentle spirit and the love she shared with her family.”

I once recall a conversation with Candice, in which she said words cannot always describe feelings. I couldn't have agreed more then or now. It is certainly hard to understand how things go sometimes in this life, but to have had some time with her in this life cannot be truly described with words. As we can see by here wonderful artistry and how she would leave expressions on the canvas, Candice's beautiful soul has spread very deep and rich strokes of love on the canvass of so many, and I am grateful for to have received some of them and in my heart they will remain.

God bless and Godspeed.

Love,

Michael

“ Even though Candice did not leave her home in these last several years, I think she touched more lives than she could ever imagine, especially mine. Our conversations were deep and rich, philosophical and funny. I so enjoyed hearing about her life before her injury and and drank in the wisdom she gained in learned to navigate her changed life. She is an amazing soul.

“ Candice and i had many talks over the past couple years. Engaging. Inspiring. Even through her struggles she kept her head up, learned, and grew. I learned a lot from her. I am so saddened yet know her struggle is over. Perhaps she’s found her freedom and peace. Thanks for your beautiful friendship, Candice.

“ I have only known Candice for the last five months as her caregiver. Even though she was very sick and suffering a lot she was a very kind loving and precious person that will be greatly missed. I would get her groceries for her and also she loved her Vente Soy chai latte from Starbucks in the mornings. She also would get popsicles or ice cream for us to share before I would start to do my work for her, she always wanted me to take a few minutes to sit down and visit and relax, she worried more about me than herself. In these last few weeks she had been feeling so bad yet she would tell about a time not so long ago how she had felt better, she texted me this picture that she said was from 5 years ago. I felt it a privilege to come to know and help Candice, I will truly miss the time we spend together.
