“ Big dad, it's been 6 weeks since you left us and I still can't believe it. I miss you so much. I would give just about anything to have you back here. I still reach for the phone to call you and then realize I can't. I hope you've heard all my prayers and all the talking I've been doing to you. It's bittersweet that I have the t-bird again... I know how much you loved that car because you never stopped telling me what a huge favor I did when I sold it to you. Driving it home today, I felt like you were there with me. I could smell you too. Thank you for reminding me to turn the overdrive off, that really helped. I feel so lost without you; while going thru my recipe box I saw all the things you taught me how to cook and I was overwhelmed with emotions. Who do I call when I need to cook something? Who will I call when the car makes some crazy noise? Who will I call when I need a shoulder or just need someone to listen? Who do I call when I'm feeling down? Who will always believe in me and encourage me no matter what? Who will be my number one fan? Whatever am I going to do with myself on April 23rd, Father's Day, and Christmas not being able to buy you all the things that you always so very much appreciated and thanked me for a billion times and said, "oh San, you shouldn't have done that..." I just don't know what to do or even where to start... to begin dealing with losing you. I feel absolutely paralyzed and stuck here in all this disbelief and sadness. Tears are falling down my face right now. I know you don't want me to cry and be sad, but how can I not? I know you're still here, I keep finding all the pennies... but it's just not the same. I love you so very much dad... thank you from the bottom of my heart for everything you taught me and gave me through your love, understand and compassion ~ you gave me so many things that money could never buy and I will treasure it forever & ever until we meet again. I know how much you missed your mom and I remember how many times you told me how hard it was losing her and how much you missed her. Now I understand exactly what you were going through. At least I have a little comfort in knowing you are missing her no more. I love you Dad and I look forward to hearing from you soon. Forever & ever.... xoxox PS. and just because I'm going to kick your butt when I get there for reasons I'm sure you know by now, please don't let that keep you from visiting me now, ha ha ha! I promise I'll go easy on ya, hee hee.

“ Hi Chuck. I can not believe that you are gone! You were a kind and good person. You were always there for me. You helped me with my car and my dishwasher. You had to come back to re-fix my dishwasher because it had leaked. When I called you the next day to let you know that it was leaking, you had no problem with that and came right back to my house to fix it. I thought to myself at that time, that Chuck is one hell of a person. I will miss you Chuck with my heart. I know you are sitting with grandma, Donnie and Conrad and I know that you are happy and ok. Again Chuck, I will miss you. Love Judy.

“ Hey dad, you've been gone 8 days now and I still can't believe it. I miss you so much. So many memories are coming back to me about things we did, or stuff you used to say. You were such a comedian ~ always making everyone laugh. I remember whenever someone would forget something, you'd say, "it must've been a lie." Do you remember always asking everyone to feel your arms when you made a muscle or punch you as hard as they could in the stomach so you could show how hard your abs were? Sometimes you were so full of yourself, LOL! Darlene reminded me how you used to ask "did you take your stupid pills today?" or say, "what a dope!", "you big dope" or "you big dummy". She also said that you used to tell Danielle, "give me a nickel and I'll punch you in the face." What a goofball you were! Our family has shared SO many good and funny memories of you -- wow, I didn't realize how much you meant to everyone. I knew you were my world, but I didn't realize how much you meant to everyone else. I can only hope that when my time here is up that so many people will have so many good things to say about me as they did you. It's so nice to hear everyone telling stories about you, mostly funny ones. A lot of my cousins have said you were their favorite. It's bittersweet but it sure warms my heart. Since I can't make any new memories with you now that you're gone, I will cherish all that I have. Having family tell me stories about you is the great gift they could ever give me because they're giving me new memories of you to cherish till the day I die... and I will. I'm going out with Chuck Friday night as well as our cousin Lynn Marie aka "sweetheart" and we're gonna kick one back for ya. Although I don't feel like doing anything, I know that would make you happy to see your family together. And I know you don't want any of us sitting around moping and being sad, so I try hard not to cry and be sad over losing you but it's so hard. I was telling Lynn Marie that although I didn't like talking to you when you were drinking because you wouldn't shut up, LOL I would give almost anything right now to get a drunk call from you. I would let you go on and on and on and tell me the same stories over and over and over... as long as you wanted. San loves you! xoxox

“ Chuck-We first met when Karen & I where friends in grade school. You were always a nice guy. I think we always shared the same respect for one another and I Thank you for that. I know how much you loved your kids and seemed to never think you could give them enough. But you did. I know you are looking down on them now. As Sandy & Chuckie did this final act of love for you by giving you this final farewell on earth. I know how very proud of them you are and from above you are full of pride and love. To all of the Crowton family: I know how much you miss your brother and wish you could see him one more time, tell him that you love him and spend some time with him. But knowing Chuck Im almost sure he held that one good thought of each and everyone of you in his heart. Don't look at the things that could have been, just hold dear the happy and special moments you shared. May God be with you all until you meet again. Love, Janet

“ Uncle Chuck/God Father I still can't believe your gone I miss you so very much I wish I would have came to see you more but I know you knew I always loved you. I can't sleep at night all I do is think of you and I can hear your voice saying Lynn Marie don't cry for me I'm in a better place now. I seen my dad today Ron he told me some good stores about you two. I think talking about the good times make us feel a little better. Michelle & I always thought our dad and you looked so much alike. I remember dad Ron would always bring me along to your house so I could play with Chuckie and Lena and you and dad would sit at the table and drink your Milwaukee's Best and smoke your cigarettes. I don't think my parents could have picked a better God Father for me. You were always there for me. I remember just a few years back dad Ron and I came by your house and I seen your lava lamp and I said to you I always wanted a lava lamp and you unplugged it and said here Lynn Marie it's yours now. I still have that lava lamp it's in my new house and every time I plug it in I will think of you and what a good Uncle and God Father you were to me. You always had such a big heart. I see a lot of you in Sandy. Like Sandy said you will live on in her and of course Chuckie and Lena too. We all miss you so very much and still today it feels so unreal that your gone. I know you always wanted everyone in the family to get along and I hope that we all can keep our promise to you and all get together for you as a family. We know now life is too short to be upset with family and I hope we can open are hearts like you always opened yours to us all. Now that your gone a part of me is gone. I love you very much Uncle Chuck/God Father. Love always & forever, Lynn Marie

“ Success To laugh often and much to win the respect of intelligent people and the affection of children; to earn the appreciation of honest critics and endure the betrayal of false friends; to appreciate beauty; to find the best in others; to leave the world a bit better, whether by a healthy child, a garden patch or a redeemed social condition; to know even one life has breathed easier because you have lived. This is to have succeeded. -Ralph Waldo Emerson

“ Hey dad, I miss you so much. I'm so glad you got the military burial you wanted and deserved -- wow, what a send-off. It was so hard to walk away though; I just wanted to stay there with you forever. I know it's not "goodbye", it's "so long for now, until we meet again." I hope you got a good laugh when I finally left and said, "San loves you" HA HA just like you and your third person "Dad loves you". ; You're the best. I still can't believe you're gone Dad. I so dread this long, bumpy road of grief I'm about to travel and all the tears I'm going to shed over missing you; I really truly don't even know where to start as far as trying to deal with all this. I feel so lost and out of touch; my world came to a screeching halt last Thursday when you left. Since then, everything has been so surreal. I know wholeheartedly you are in Heaven and you are so happy to be back with your mom who you loved so much, and that does bring me great comfort. But it's so hard not to be selfish and wish you back. This world is a better place because you passed through, without a doubt R.W. Emerson. I am a better person because of the precious things you unknowingly and so modestly instilled in me through your never-ending love, compassion, generosity, thoughtfulness, optimism, and even your sarcastic smart-ass sense of humor. You didn't leave behind some great big fortune, but you somehow managed to leave me filthy, stinking RICH with things money can't buy and no one can ever take that away from me nor can the damn IRS tax me on it, thank God!. Money gets spent, but what you have given me will resonate in every ounce of my being until we meet again. I am completely honored that your blood flows through my veins, half of you breathes in me and our souls are certainly forever intertwined paraphrased from "Sister" by the Nixons. A very huge part of me died right along with you the very second I got the horrible news; I feel like something has been suddenly ripped from me, leaving a huge, gaping hole in my heart and soul -- perhaps because it has -- YOU. But that hole will mend in time because a part of you will live on forever in me. On a happier note, it was incredible awesome to see all our family in the past two days -- I am so blessed with the coolest family in the world. It has brought me so much joy to be spending so much time with or talking to Chuck and

Lena and finally getting to know them better late than never. Too bad it's under these circumstances, but none the less... for the first time ever I don't feel like an only child. Of course, Chuck has your sense of humor and called me an "old bag" today joking around of course. I told him if he ever called me that again I'd take him down, ha ha! Sampson and Lucky are really missing you. I was petting Sampson telling him, "I know you miss your daddy. I do too." and he put his head on my lap. Poor baby. Wow, I could just go on and on and on but it's late and I am beyond exhausted and delusional. The last 5 days are all kind of blended together; I'm not even sure what day it is anymore. I so desperately need sleep. I hope you let me know "you're still here" soon. www.youtube.com/watch?v=dDNL6grs6jY I love you dad.

“ Keep a Good Thought! One night a man had a dream. He dreamed he was walking along the beach with the Lord. Across the sky flashed scenes from his life. For each scene, he noticed two sets of footprints in the sand: one belonging to him, and the other to the Lord. When the last scene of his life flashed before him, he looked back at the footprints in the sand. He noticed that many times along the path of his life there was only one set of footprints. He also noticed that it happened at the very lowest and saddest times in his life. This really bothered him and he questioned the Lord about it. "Lord, You said that once I decided to follow you, You'd walk with me all the way. But I have noticed that during the most troublesome times in my life, there is only one set of footprints. I don't understand why when I needed you most you would leave me." The Lord replied, "My son, My precious child, I love you and I would never leave you. During your times of trial and suffering, when you see only one set of footprints, it was then that I Carried You." I love you Uncle Chuck

“ Uncle Chuck, I love you and can't stand the fact you were taken so very soon. I know you are looking down tonight and are so proud of your children and how awesomely perfect they did right by you. I'm your favorite uncle.. right? "Don't worry I won't tell the others" Come sit on your Uncle's lap and give him a kiss, you did that the last time I saw you and I am sorry I didn't. You did that a lot but I thought I would have another chance. I am so happy I did it many times before. You be a good girl Danielle and treat your Mother right, your pretty smart, and I'll give you a nickel to punch you in the face.. ok..Uncle Chuck.. go sit down you dummy. God, what I wouldn't give to come back give me a nickel and slug me one. I love you , Uncle Chuck Love, Danielle

“ Dear Crowton family, Please accept my sincere condolences for your loss. Take comfort in the hope the Bible gives us at John 5:28,29 - "Do not marvel at this, because the hour is coming in which all those in the memorial tombs will hear his voice and come out." May this wonderful hope to see our loved ones again in a resurrection on an earth where we will find our "exquisite delight in the abundane of peace," Psalms 37:10,11 and "death will be no more" Revelation 21:3,4, encourage you in this difficult time.

“ Sandy and Family, Hold your father in your heart, forever there he will be...for eternity. Hold memories of your father close, share them with the girls often. Visit his gravesite on happy occasions and sad. Don't ever let yourself hold regrets, because there are none in a loving relationship between a father and his precious daughter. You will meet again, he will watch over you and your loved ones while he waits for you to see him in body again. Find peace so he may go. Most of all take the time YOU need to grieve. He wouldn't want you to be sad for more than a day. Much Love, Jennifer

“ Dear Family of Chuck, I did not know him but I am a friend of Sandy's. If what Sandy says is even partially true about how he made her who she is today than I know he was a great great man. His daughter is such a wonderful person and he had to be such to help guide her that way. I have read the other entries and can just feel the love his family has for him, it just pours out of each word. I will be praying for all of you for your comfort and strength. I've seen that at least you know he is at home with our Lord and I pray the comfort you get from knowing that will keep you strong until you are all home with him again.
