You will always be missed and have a special place in my heart, love you brother d, your sister donna this reminded me of you Dennis: Your Brother is always the first male friend you will have in your life. nobody will ever be able to understand your craziness like your Brother and although you don't see each other as much as you'd like, he will always remain your friend and be there for you when you need him the most. While people will come and go in your life, your Brother will be in your heart for a lifetime.
