“ Eleanor had become the beloved matriarch of the whole Bechler clan. She remained alert and sharp til almost the end of her life. One of my favorite memories of her dates from 2001, when her younger cousins my mother Margaret Pare' and her sister Bernadine Hendron both died a few weeks apart. Knowing that the Bechlers would gather, I brought a large stack of unlabeled, yellowed photos to the funeral home, dating from the 1910's and 1920's. Not one of them stumped Eleanor, even the babies. She put names to them all. She had such a long life that it's hard to believe she's gone. My deepest sympathies to Craig's family.
