Emma Sue Andreoli

June 3, 1925 - December 26, 2023

Emma Sue Andreoli, a woman of unwavering faith, a devoted family matriarch, and a source of love and care, peacefully passed away on December 26, 2023, at the age of 98. Her life was a testament to kindness, faith, and selfless dedication to her family.

Born on June 3, 1925, in Cookeville, TN, to Thomas Scarlett and Cora Judd Scarlett, Emma was immersed in the Baptist Church during her early years and found solace in singing and playing the piano to traditional hymns. Later in life, she embraced Catholicism and lived her faith wholeheartedly.

At the age of 17, Emma Sue moved to Michigan during World War II to work and be closer to her sister. It was in Detroit where she encountered the love of her life, Raymond Andreoli, after his service in the US Army. They were united in marriage on October 25, 1947, at St. Anthony Catholic Church in Detroit, beginning a union that would span decades and create a beautiful family legacy.

Residing in Detroit until 1973, Emma Sue and Raymond then settled in Royal Oak, where she dedicated over 50 years to her home and family. She had a passion for sewing, reading, and music, often sharing her musical talents by teaching her grandchildren to play the piano.

Emma Sue Andreoli was most cherished for her unwavering commitment to her family. She found joy in supporting her children by lovingly caring for her grandchildren whenever needed.

She is survived by her children: Thomas (Liz) Andreoli, Frank Andreoli, Mary Colucci, Martha (Dennis) Miller, Margaret (Tom) Sinagoga, Janet (Alan) Freitag, Stephen (Jeanne) Andreoli, and was preceded in death by her son Ray Andreoli, Jr. Emma was the proud grandmother of Jordan (Stephanie) Miller, Troy Miller, Christopher Sinagoga, Sarah (Andrew) Dombrowski, Brandon Freitag, Hailey Freitag, Joseph Andreoli, Alex Andreoli, Emma Andreoli, Mary Andreoli, and great-grandmother of Claire Miller, Scarlet Miller, and Grace Dombrowski.

Emma Sue was a beloved sister to Bonnie Wozniak, Joyce Taylor, Herbie (Shirley) Scarlett, and Jane Cantrell, and was preceded in death by her siblings: Elise Nash, Juanita Scarlett, Joe Scarlett, and Sylvia Johnson.

A funeral to celebrate Emma's life will be held on Wednesday, January 3, 2024, with in-state visitation beginning at 10 am, followed by the funeral Mass at 11 am at Guardian Angels Catholic Church, 581 E. 14 Mile Rd., Clawson.

Emma Sue Andreoli's legacy of love, faith, and dedication to family will forever resonate in the hearts of those who were touched by her warmth and kindness. “ Aunt Sue, Uncle Ray, and Uncle Carl had an immeasurable impact on my life. As a child I remember feeling burdened by visits to family, but I never felt that way visiting Aunt Sue and Uncle Ray. Their transcendent kindness and empathy had a way of melting even the most jaded kid's heart. When I think of the man I want to be and who best guided me to there, without question it's Aunt Sue, Uncle Ray, and Uncle Carl... without them, I wouldn't be the man I am today.

“ I will never be able to write all the memories I have of Aunt Sue. The times I stayed at their house while growing up. All the clothes and costumes she made for me and my kids. Her smiles and singing as she did things around the house. She had the biggest heart. She will be greatly missed. We love you Aunty Sue
