“ Cousin Eric,

I am at a loss of words and truly heart broken over your passing and just trying to keep the Good Ole Days alive in my mind. The great times we spent growing up, going camping, cedar pointe, all the Holidays, our trips up north with Grama & Grampa Rinke, deer hunting with the family, and you and I shooting the shit down the power lines and you doing your deer calling I can hear that to this day and it makes me laugh so hard... Your sense of humor and that one of a kind laugh will forever linger in our minds- Our trips to skate world, we were just were talking a few months back about it when you and I were skating to together and your friend made fun of you, and your cousin Earl wasn't having it and he tripped your friend and you had the last laugh... so many memories, your love for Cars, trucks, the casino and the Red Wings- you truly were a "Wing Nut". I am so gonna miss texting with you- I always knew when my notification went off about 13 times in a row it was you, because you would text one word followed with a HAHA every time which I am laughing as I am writing this just thinking of it ..I remember years ago Shane was like 4 and you and I were texting and he had my phone and seen your name and said out loud "Awe mom's got a boyfriend", and Dave really upset what? what do you mean.... I said WHAT???? he said yeah his name is Eric.... HAHAHA I said that is my cousin, we laughed so hard... I know the journey you had was full of ups and downs and wasn't the easiest traveled, but want you to know you were SO loved your Mom, sister, Stephanie and Uncle Earl who you really had a place in their hearts as well as our of us cousins- I know your heart was never the same after the passing of your father, but I know now that you are at peace enjoying paradise with him, (P.S, pull his finger for me). And if you have the winning lotto numbers, would you share them with me hahaha, as you always dreamt of winning... I am praying for your souls journey and I am not going to say good bye, but see you later and until then, will keep your gentle, kind spirit and laughter alive in my heart.. With all my love always, Your favorite cousin....hahaha...

“ Moved over 50 miles away from where we grew up. When my son was born almost 22 years ago, Eric made the trip and brought him his first pair of shoes. Something he would never let me forget, and I still proudly have them. If anyone was going to beat me to the punch on “Dad” things, I’m glad it was you, sir. Rest Peacefully Brother.

“ Ive known Eric for 33 years, hes a kind, generous an helpful person. As with most we all had our problems an weaknesses, the last decade seemed to be very hard on him an at some point he gave up. I hope hes in the company of his father an in peace.
