“ Though I only had the opportunity to visit George on a couple of occasions, I have had the true pleasure of his daughters friendship for many years. Children are a reflection of their family. That said, though I did not have a personal relationship with George, I will be forever grateful for all he gave of himself to his family. His is a life not forgotten , for he will forever live on in his children and grandchildren and all of us who have been blessed to know the Coon family. May God welcome you with open arms...Dana Brown
