“ Auntie Grace lived her entire life in the service of others. She was the most unselfish person I’ve ever known. My mother relied on her so many times for help when we were children. I believe a major contributing factor in my mother and aunt living so long was the companionship they shared later in life. Three weeks ago Auntie Grace questioned why she was the last sibling left and prayed for God to take her. Today, we can celebrate the life of Auntie Grace, a faithful servant of God and of those she loved. Today we celebrate the reunion of Josephine, Antonio, Santo, Larry, Santa, and Grace. Today I feel nothing but joy.

“ Auntie Grace always loved us like we were her own grandkids, and honestly she showed what it meant to care for everyone she met. One of my favorite stories from her was how she stood up for her coworker who was being bullied -- Auntie Grace was usually pretty quiet and calm...but not in that story haha.

Love you and miss you Auntie Grace.

“ Auntie Grace was like a second mother to us as we were growing up. She was a very loving person with a big heart, kind, unassuming, always thinking of others and never complained about the challenges that life brought her. She was a wonderful example of an overcomer. Family is what was most important to her. We all loved her dearly and she has a permanent, indelible place in all of our hearts. She enriched our lives immensely. God rest her beautiful soul.
