“ My most favorite memory of Jean is that we both had one beautiful thing in common. We both were blessed with two boys. We talked often, about how lucky we were to have such loving children. A true testament to the love of their Mother, her boys made the decision of taking her home where they each stayed by her side until she took her last breath. If that isn't a true love, I don't know what else would be. I think that's something every mother would hope for in their end of life. I will always hold a special place in my heart for Jean and the beautiful woman she was!☐ R.I.P. sweetie!!
