“ We will always remember John and treasure the legacy he left on this earth. When my husband and I joined the Sojourners faith and justice discussion group, we had never in our whole lives yet belonged to a group wherein the men and women prayed together, shared our life experiences together, discussed, both secularly and theologically, such topics as racism, immigration, Sabbath economics, etc., etc., etc. the situation of the Church in our times, etc., etc. and I saw Jerry bloom from seeing the examples of John, Ken and Joe in our little group and the abilities they had to be open, expressive, authentic and caring people. Such a feeling of safety for everyone--men and women--to become more of "who we already are". Even when John was dealing with the Alzheimers and during the latter group meetings not able to remember so much and contribute to the discussion, always enjoyed his peaceful personality and the way he would respond: me "Hello, John, good to see you!" John: "Hello, good to be seen!" always said with a twinkle in his eye. You served the Lord well, John, now rest in peace and we'll all be seeing you in the hereafter by and by.

“ John and I missed playing against each other in Big Ten golf by ten years. Otherwise, we might have played against each other - U of M and OSU. I'll bet he would have beat me on the score card and made me laugh so hard I couldn't hit the ball.

This song from the Broadway musical Rent captures the Spirit of how John lived his life, through every day, of every Season, of every year. Thank you, John, for your kindness, compassion, humor, spirituality and your heart so perpetually open to a passionate love for ALL living beings. The blessing of YOU will remain forever in our hearts.

“ John, we see the fruits of your wise counsel every day in our children. You and Mary were such an influence on them growing up, serving as surrogate grandparents and instilling them with the concept that they were part of the family of man and needed to take that very seriously. I loved your love of life and will remember and honor it always.

“ My sincere condolences the entire Law family from the Renel family. John was always a happy go lucky man with a straightforward dose of reality.

He showed and lived with true compassion for others and would do whatever he could to help anyway he could. John and Mary were great friends of my Mom and Dad for many years until their passing. I'm pretty sure my dad picked up golf as a hobby due to his friendship with John. John was an accomplished golfer and played well into his later years. Because my dad took up golf I became interested in the game at a young age and have become an avid golfer thanks to John.

John had a real zest for life so it is this that I will remember him by. God Bless John and Mary Law.
