“ Jay was one of my favorite administrators at Van Dyke Schools. It was because of his PR that the millage to build and equip TEN new elementary library learning centers passed by the citizens of Warren. His down-to-earth communication won over the hearts of those who would have to pay more in their taxes. He convinced them of the long-term value for their children and community. I worked with the district's elementary library to get the learning centers operational. The world needs thousands more like him! I would have been there for his funeral had I known of his passing to New Life. My prayerful condolences to the family and gratitude to God for having known him.

“ When I learned of Jay's passing, I was filled with deep sorrow. Jay was a one of a kind filled with wit, joy, compassion, and always had that little sparkle in his eye. He had a commanding voice that was used in many UCS videos and presentations. His knowledge of sports statistics was irreputable. Joan, I still remember when the lunch bunch was there to wish Jay the best as he headed off to Texas for a medical situation that we weren't sure he would come back from - but thank God he did, and rejoined the lunch group.

Joan, just remember, Jay was a great guy, loved his family, and had lots of friends that will surely miss him going forward - I know I will.

“ I was so saddened today when I found out we had lost Jay. He was such a wonderful, energetic and kind person to everyone he met. I met Jay early on during my years at Utica Community Schools. There never was a better voice or comforting sound than the "Voice of UCS." I always found him to be generous and encouraging to new and senior teachers. Regardless of where he was or who he was talking to, Jay always found time to recognize people that he knew. Jay was fun to talk to and made everyone feel special. He made us feel important; like we were more than just teachers.

I hope his family finds comfort in the happy times and many memories they can share together. He was a very special man.

“ Jay befriended me when I covered my first school board meeting fresh out of journalism school. He always provided wise counsel and irreverent humor in the 50 plus years I knew him. Jay made life better for lots of people. He will be greatly missed.
