“ Dear Tarr family, I am remorseful about your loss and like to extend my deepest sympathy for your loved one June Tarr. From personal experience I know that the death of a love one causes pain and grief and sometimes it seems unbearable. The Scriptures contain comfort that can assist us during times of distress. The ransom of Jesus and the hope of seeing my loved one again in the resurrection brought me comfort. I would like to share these three scriptures with you to give you comfort John 5:28, 29, Acts 24:15 and Romans 15:4. May the God of comfort give you peace and rest.

“ June, You've always been a very special woman, mother, wife, friend, sister, and an example for everyone to follow. You led your life with class and dignity always being honest, happy, and cheerful to everyone you encountered. You have truly touched and been inspiration to your family and everyone else, such as myself, that has had the pleasure to know you. Never did you look at the negative side of life, even through your hardships. You always had a smile, something funny to say, or just good advice for someone in need. Dayton, was a decent man and the love of your life. He loved you so much, he was so happy to be your husband, and it showed in everything he's ever done or said about you, to you, or for you. He asked Linda & Gary for a few promises before he passed. He wanted them to reassure him that they would look over you and protect you in the event he wasn't there. He loved you that much that he tried to prepare for his own passing, but never forgetting his true love. Linda & Gary both did a masterful job in looking over you as an angel on your shoulder and keeping the promises they made to Dayton. They watched over each detail of your health and took action anytime you seemed in trouble. You made it to 93, after leading a full and happy life full of memories of your children, grand children, and great grand children. You will be greatly missed and I'm much better off to of known class people like you and Dayton. I'm glad you now have the chance to hold the hand of the love of your life, once again, now and forever!!! Rest in peace June, you will be missed, but remembered by all. What a classy lady!!!

“ I have sat down and started writing this twice,so hopefully the third time is the charm.I can't start out saying something about my Gram without bringing up my Granddad. We had him taken from us way too soon but I have always felt his presence,especially at the cottage he built for his wife and family over 50 years ago.They have to be the strongest couple I have ever known.They endured the heartache as a young couple trying to start a family by losing their first pregnancy,then years later after 4 children they lost their oldest and only daughter Sandy and though they were full of their own grief they put their pain aside to jump in and help with the young children she had left behind. I have often heard my cousin say our Granddad was her hero but I believe both of my Grandparents are my heroes. My Granddad worshipped my Gram and treated her like a queen and my Grandmother loved and lived for the 26 yrs after he was gone with never a thought of finding another companion. I asked her once if she ever thought of finding someone to keep company with and she said "I already found the love of my life,so I don't need to look again". I take great comfort in knowing they are together again, The years that past after my Granddad was gone,she showed her strength once again.She survived a stroke and then yet losing another child,her youngest son Larry and as much as she wanted to be on her own she moved in with my Dad. In those years she lived there my siblings and I grew to love and embrace the time we had left with her.We would take turns taking her to her cottage,spending weekends and lots of summers with her in the one place she truly loved to be.Though I have many memories of holidays and weekends at their home in Troy,my most cherished memories are from their little piece of heaven,their cottage.I am sure when they bought that little piece of swamp and began to fill it in and build,they were thinking about how much their children and eventually Grandchildren were going to enjoy it. But I think they never imagined the impact it would have on all of us. As a kid,I thought everyone had a cottage to go to,it never crossed my mind just how lucky we were to have Grandparents who used their money, sweat and time to make a special place for their family to go. Knowone ever wanted to leave on Sundays,especially my Grandma.She loved to fish and sit by the water and watch us kids swim and run around the yard. Even though it was a little dangerous to fish with her, ducking when she cast in fear of her catching our hats or hooking our shirts, we never missed a opportunity to jump in the boat with her and Grandpa or sit on the dock and fish with her. I can still close my eyes and see her short legs hanging over the dock sitting with a fishing pole in her hand. In the years we would take her for the weekends there, watching now her Great Grandchildren now running back and forth from the lake, or getting their hooks stuck in the dock or watching us take the occasional fish that swallowed the hook off a line if she realized the gift they had truely given us?? I hope they both now know how much they gave to us and how much I love them both for it. i also hope she realizes how much she meant to me and even when she didn't fish anymore or able to get on the boat with us for the day, I still cherish the time I had with her. Her patience, her strength, or even her reaching out to hold my hand when we talked still will linger on. She was a strong woman but that never hardened her, even with the lose of her children, she still had a smile for those she knew and always polite to those she didn't. In the days that have followed since she past, I have had many tears, not because I am sad, she made the most of her 93yrs, but because of the void it is putting in all of our lives. My Granddad treated like a queen, maybe because she really was a queen, and now we have to say goodbye to our queen. I love you Gram. Your Granddaughter Laurie Ann Tarr
