“ What can I say about Kevin? I met Kevin back in High School and we became fast friends. Together with our friends Dan and Marshall, we formed a modern day version of as Kevin called it, "The Rat Pack." Kevin had a way of always making us laugh, even at the most inappropriate times or situations. No matter what adversity he faced, he always tried to keep a positive attitude. To this day, he is the only guy I know who could somehow manage to burn his own foot on the grill at a Taco Bell restaurant. The way he described the incident still makes me laugh to this day, and I think what made Kevin unique to me is his ability to laugh at himself. Kevin recently reconnected with me via Facebook this past summer. As we reminisced, he told me how much he missed High School. He said, he wished we could go back to the fun times we had and sadly I did not make the connection. Kevin, you left us way too soon. You will be missed.
