“ There are no words to describe what you meant to me. You are my sister, the keeper of my secrets and pain just as I am to you. I grieve because you are no longer here to give a hug to, but I rejoice in the knowledge that you are now with your mom, Lori and most importantly - the love of your life - John. Thank you for being a friend.

i dont know where to begin but i will start with the first time i met you..You welcomed me with a handshake , but it turned into a hug..You have ALWAYS been the kindest and sweetest person I've ever known.. Before Dan and I got married yo told him you Approved..LOL..I took that as a huge compliment, especially coming from you..i am so blessed that I had you in my life..I know (well ive always known) now that Dan received his compassion from you..You will be missed everyday and every moment..Life wont be the same..I promised you I would always take care of Dan..that will never change..Thank you for loving me..love you, miss you..Colleen

“ To the best, most loving and caring grandmother and my best friend, I will forever miss you and your beautiful smile. Your heart and soft touch. Not a day will go by without you on my mind, but I am relieved that you are now in the hands of Jesus, away from pain and discomfort. You have shared with me the most amazing, adventurous and beautiful life! I cannot thank you enough for being there for me through every troubled time i have faced, being there to push me and celebrate with me all achievements of success and simply being there to teach me and mend my heart into one as big as yours!

Your passing has been hard on me. It has been on all of us. You touched so many people. My heart is so heavy and aches within me. But Yaya, you will never ever, ever be forgotten. You have created such a wonderful and loving family that i am so beyond blessed to be apart of.

I love you forever and ever Yaya.

Love your baby girl, Heather
