“ I have known Marilyn for 45 years. She was first a client, and then a dear friend — and she always had a wonderful sense of humor. She loved her husband deeply and spoke of him often. Now she is with him again.

Marilyn used to say that when we go out, we would “kick our heels up high!” As she got older, she would laugh and say, “Oh, I’m kicking my heels up... just not so high anymore.” That was Marilyn — witty, warm, and always able to make you smile.

She was a brilliant lady whose presence brightened every conversation and every visit. I will truly miss our talks and our time together. I send my sympathies to all who knew Marilyn.

Though Marilyn will be deeply missed, knowing she passed peacefully on Valentine’s Day, free from pain and reunited with her beloved Hugh, brings a smile to my heart. - Hugs - Janine
