“ Sometime around 1970 or so, I was up at the river house in Ewart with Tom and his folks. I came down with a sore throat, and Marion announced that she had a sure cure. I ingested a combination of raw egg and vinegar and it was all I could do to keep it from coming back up. As I remember, it didn't cure the sore throat. That's just one of the fond memories I have of Marion and her special family.
