“ Dear Herb, Brian and Jill It would take pages to tell all the things I have memories of Mary and each one special. From teaching at Clarkston Elementary to having fun with Jill and Shauna. Then Mary and Jill camping at Otsego County Park, being rained out and coming to my place 2 a.m. dripping wet. Later my pure joy in having you buy next to me for a summer home. The hours we spent under the pines in the swing talking. You coming for my 40th anniversary of my property party when Mary was so sick and the last time she was here. I will miss her very much. With love Anita

“ Dear Herb and Family, It is hrd to believe Mary could not fight off this last assault. She has been so remarkable through all of her battles. She will be truly missed. She is one of those people who make a special mark on all those they meet. Although I cannot be with all of you this weekend in body I will be with you in prayer and remembering.

“Mary Carol was the consummate friend and relative. Always praising and forgiving of others while maintaining a strong personal ethic for her own personal life. Her intelligence harnessed with humility would lead one to believe you were in the presence of an unassuming individual. However, Mary was an extremely luminous personality with an unquenchable desire to experience life. I remember as a child visiting her room for the first time. I climbed the stairs to the second floor of the huge old farmhouse, stared across the long room to the peaked corner room separated by a door. As I entered the door, it was as if I stepped into another world. A world full of neatly organized books, dolls, and along the window ledge her prized collection salt and pepper shakers. She let me touch each and every one while patiently explaining their origin. I was eight years old, lived in the city and had found this wonderful person living in the country within her own little room of the whole world. This quiet unassuming girl from the dairy farm became a bright light, shimmering and sparkling for all of us. We will miss her dearly. Herb, Brian, Mez, Jill, Tim and Boys, our hearts are with you today and always. Mother, David and I are sorry we cannot be with you.”

“The race isn't given to the swift or to the strong , but to the one that endureth to the end. You ran a good race. You finished your course. You will truly be missed.”

“Mary was a kind soul. Her laughter made me smile. We had great conversations during the many years we worked together at Lessenger Elementary School. My heart goes out to her family - they will miss her the most - how blessed they were to have her and all of us too. May God comfort you and wrap you in the arms of peace during this difficult time. Let cherished memories soothe the pain. I wish I could be there in person to say goodbye and pay my respects. Mary will truly be missed.

“Uncle Biff, Brian, and Jill, What a joy and privilege it has been to love and be loved by Mary. I can only imagine your pain right now. Please know that our prayers are with you all and I wish that we could be there with you. Please forgive our physical absence and know that we are with you in spirit. I have no wise words of wisdom on how to grieve but I do know how to celebrate a wonderful christian women's life. Laugh, Love, and re-live those precious memories that you shared and cry tears of joy that Mary is with Jesus our Lord and Savior! May God Bless you all in these difficult times and be with you always. Love, John, Lanette, Justine and Erika Celoni

““Let us live so that when we come to die even the undertaker will be sorry.” -Mark Twain Mary had many fine qualities. Intelligence and an unbeatable kindness. The main quality that I will always remember is her ability to love others unconditionally. Think about it, how many people do you know that don't try and change you? Mary never criticized me. If I criticized myself, she'd say "Oh that's not true, or "that's what make you so charming." Jill and Brian, you really had an exceptional mother, very few parents have that quality. I could fill ten more pages on the things I liked about her. She was a wonderful, loyal friend who has left footprints in my life. I will miss her until the day I join her.
