“ Honestly, how do you put into a paragraph all the memories you've made with a loved one? So many thoughts come to mind but the two that really stand out for me is your fierce love of your family and your endless compassion for others around you. You've always stood up for the underdog and provided for those less fortunate than you and what an incredible quality that was. I can only hope in honoring your memory that I can live by your example. I love you & I'll miss you, but I know I'll see flashes of your spirit in John, Chris & Taylor!

“ Grandma,

What a wonderful woman you were. You have brought so much joy to our family over the years. Some of my fondest memories as a child are of the times spent in your company. You were quick witted and fun. Our family has had disagreements and falling outs throughout the years, but we could always find common ground in your presence - you simply would not allow your kin to argue over petty issues. The world is a bit dimmer without you, however we will continually celebrate your life and legacy. May you find peace in the great beyond. We all love you more than we can express.

Your loving grandson,

Chris

“ Hello Mom! God blessed you with a peaceful and graceful transition on your journey home.. I was sitting in your room the other day, remembering the time you took to put little green bows on my dress for the Sadie Hawkins dance at school.. I felt so pretty.. I thank you for creativeness and lots of hours in making that happen.. I, also remember the time you took to make Laura's dress for her to be Baptized in.. It took you lots of hours and many weeks to complete.. What a special gift you made for my new baby girl, Laura.. Plus, she was born on your birthday.. As Laura, grew, you and her shared so many memories and sometimes celebrated your birthdays together.. I passed her dress onto her, when her daughter, Megan was born and Baptized.. Megan, look like a little princess in it.. It will be passed onto Megan when the time comes.. I am so blessed that, our precious Lord, blessed you with such a great life.. You were preparing yourself over these passed weeks to make your journey home to His home.. You have so many waiting for you.. Our Lord, will greet you first and then dad will be right behind Him, plus their is your son, Richard, your mom and dad, Uncle L.B. and Aunt Peg, and Nan and Chuck, so you see Mom you will not be alone... They have been waiting for you to get the party started, as you were such a great party planner... I remember all the Christmas eves at the house.. You especially had a great time as the grandchildren started to come.. I remember all the holidays that were spent at your home on Mendal .. Swimming in the pool, making your famous macaroni and potato salad, both were always a hit... I had perfected your potato salad, but not a 100%.. It is time for you to rest.. You are with our precious, Lord and dancing with the Angels.. May you watch over your remaining family here on earth and be at peace that we will miss you, but we will be okay...

Your loving daughter,
Lonnie
