“Mel made an impact on my life that forever changed me as a person. She taught me to be respectful and dignified in the face of extreme animosity. When most people would be bitter and hateful, she would be the better person by never displaying negativity in front of my sister and I. Mel was a true lady at all times. She was smart, funny, beautiful, kind, and a gracious person. My father was a lucky man to have found such a person. I’m sure he has missed her, but now they are back together again. I have few regrets in life. One of them is that I never seemed to be able to find time to visit her and my stepbrothers. I guess Mel taught me one more lesson in life. I need to reach out to my family and make time to be with them.
