“ When I first met Milton in 1981, I knew I was going to like him. I Couldn't put a finger on it at the time, but Milton was just..... Milton. Probably the kindest most honest person I have ever known and one of the smartest as well. We nick named him “Mott The Hoople” because he was so conservative and so old school just the opposite of that band. We loved to tease him..... because we loved him. Milton had a very positive impact on my life, and I love him for that. I will never forget him and I will surely miss him.

“ I first met Milt when we pulled together the Nuclear, Biological and Chemical Defense Office at TACOM. It was a fun group dedicated to protecting our military's members in dangerous times and Milt was our guiding light and corporate memory system. We continued after his retirement as a social group getting together a couple of times a year for dinner and a gab fest that kept us updated on everyone's adventures and growing families. COVID kind of broke us up the last couple of years as regards face to face gatherings which Janice and I missed a lot.
