“ I met Phil through our Singles Golf Association. We became good friends over the years – occasional dinners together, monthly euchre, rides from the airport, etc.. He loved hosting euchre parties at my house because he could show his culinary ability. He was a great conversationalist and had a good sense of humor. He was also very dedicated to his children and grandchildren, talking about them quite often - and the family holiday dinners where he ended up holding babies all day. I believe his middle name was really ‘Sentimental’ and not ‘Macomber’. He was not able to part with Joyce’s collection of roosters or the books he inherited from his Dad because of whom they belonged. My heart goes out to his family because I know how much they will miss him. I know I will miss Phil a lot.
