“ I remember when I first met Lisa's dad, he spoke about having been lucky enough to travel all around the world. Most of his travels were work related, but he continued to travel after his retirement. He told me that although he had been all over the world and saw beautiful places he had never been anywhere as beautiful as Michigan. He loved being up North and in the UP. I'd imagine if we could ask him about heaven, he would say: it's beautiful, but not as beautiful as MichiganRest in Peace
