“ Getting to know Roger over the years at Dickinson Wright was a privilege to be cherished. He was a friend that possessed so many great qualities. Always the gentlemen, he worked hard and possessed that rare gift of never saying an unkind word about anyone or anything; a quality to be admired. Kind and polite in every sense of the word, yet always willing to give you a moment of his time to say hello and see how your day was going. We shared many great stories and laughs at our past firm Holiday parties. If you wanted to give Roger's day a boost, just ask him about his love for speed and cars. He will indeed be missed. May his family find comfort in knowing that there are so many of us that cared.
