“ To the family of Ronald W. Bleecker, I am sorry for your loss. May you find comfort in knowing that "Jehovah is close to the brokenhearted; He saves those who are crushed in spirit." (Psalm 34:18) With sympathy, “ When your Dad dies when your 5... it's your big brother that becomes "The Man" HE shows you how to throw a curve ball. And then says ... "HOLY SHIT" After you throw one that really was not that good. .. HE picks you up and brushes off your knees when you fall. And then, after he knows you are alright, laughs his ass off at how funny you looked doing it. And get a smile out of you even though it still hurts like hell. HE watches your games and tells you what you did .. right or wrong. HE puts you on your first mini bike.

HE tells your mom "he is old enough to walk down to Houghton lake with us Ill watch him". HE tells you what to say to that cute girl that makes her fall in love with you. He has your back at that one Tiger game. Even when the cops show up. HE laughed at your joke ... and then tells you 10 more ... even funnier than yours was. HE always set up a shot of Crown Royal for you every time he saw you.
Salute to my Big Bubba ... HE was "The Man" for me . Gonna miss you Ron and our Wings and Stars rivalries. .. even though i know you still like the Wings.
Kiss Mom and Nancy for me bud.

I can hear him saying those words to you as y'all were growing up. He was right there for me also Jim, I had my troubles when I was a young man at the age of 18 and he taught be how to be a man. I miss him dearly and I feel your pain. I'm sorry for your loss and can't even imagine the pain you feel. I loved him like a brother. He had my back and I had his. So that being said, your his brother so, Jim I will always have you back, brother.
