“ I am so sorry for your loss. I can remember the first time I saw Stevie, yes - Stevie. We were moving in and he was sitting on his big wheel at the bottom of the driveway looking at us like we had just arrived from another planet. I remember how he used to take his keys and stick them into the ends of his bicycle handle bars and turn them, make a car starting sound and then take off. He could catch bees with his hand and shove them into jars so fast he would never get stung. We would have chicken fights in the pool and he had a grip that couldn't be broken. And I remember numerous times that he was grounded from riding his bike and into the fishing boat it went. This is how I remember him.

“ We remember Steven as the good son who came by on Sundays to help his Dad out with the yard work and do other chores like clearing his driveway of snow. One of my favorite memories of Steve demonstrates his veracity of charecter and perserverence. His Dad had this marginally operational snowblower which Steve had managed to get started and was blowing the snow. I didn't see it happen but apparently the thing died and Steven commenced to attempting to restart it. I became aware of this funny noise outside and I looked out to see Steve reefing on the pull cord something fierce. He must have yanked on this thing at least 30 times with the wheels jumping up in the air, just manhandling the hell out of it. When most people would have just went for the shovel, he refused to quit and eventually the thing sputtered back to life and away he went finishing the job. He was also always very entertaining discussing the various quirks and virtues of his car. Steve was a good guy and we will miss him.

“ I was shock and sadden about Steve's departure. I had the pleasure of working with him at our Grosse Ile Animal Shelter taking care of our cats. He was there often to be with the cats who gave him love. maybe rest in peace.

“ Oh Dick, I am so sorry to hear of the loss of Stephen. He was so young, and I know you will miss him so much. You know what a special place he holds in my heart. It seems like yesterday that he would come over on his bike to visit and play with my kids when they were babies. I am so sorry for your loss, but oh, how happy Mary Lou must be to hold him in her arms again. Prayers for healing for you all.
