“ My grandfather was one of the greatest men I have ever met, and my personal role model. He was always kind, gracious, and strong. He was devoted to his family, God, and his community and was full of love for the people around him. Men like him make the world a better place and I'm sure he is now helping make Heaven an even better place.

“ I'll always remember how his house smells when first waking up in his house when we visited. I will also remember how he answered the phone "how do." And his smile. He always had a great sense of humor and a wonderful smile that melts your heart.
