“ 31 years ago I met the handsome man with the smiling eyes. He grew to be my friend over all the years. He was always up for a conversation, being an incredible listener and always so understanding. His kindness touched a lot of people throughout his life. His struggle with alcohol always hurt my heart deeply, as there wasn't anything anyone could say or do to help. I am glad you finally experienced peace, though short lived, and found yourself again after all the years of chaos. My last visit with you 2 weeks ago will forever stay in my thoughts. I will never forget the sultry rasp of your voice or the way you laughed and that smile that made someone feel safe. Thank you for existing sweet human. HAIL!

“ As my older cousin he was always someone I looked up to growing up. Growing up together as a close family has left me with many fond memories that I will forever cherish. Miss you Billy
